* Photoshoots. _Photoshoots_ are photos of people, such as celebrities, taken as part of an overall promotional project that emphasizes the star's character and personality. Other words for this genre are "head shot," "portrait," "fashion," or "commercial" portrait. It is the type of picture you see in magazines that's called a "picture of the week." Photos shot for this genre, or for any photography-oriented project, should be correctly framed, shot in natural light, and carefully edited. Photos in Photoshoots are often intentionally too-studio-styled so that your star does not appear out of character. * Book covers *. A book's cover features a painting of the book's cover, and may include an illustration of the title. You can use Photoshop to illustrate the front of a book or alter the cover so that it is unique. For more about cover art, see Chapter 11.

What's New In Photoshop 2022 (Version 23.4.1)?

Q: How to make jQuery auto play audio file I am using asp.net in which I have to play audio files(mp3) on button click. I have stored all files in a audio folder and I want to play them on button click. I tried the following code but it doesn't work for me:

$(function(){ var song =
document.createElement("audio");
song.setAttribute("id","audio1");
song.setAttribute("autoplay","autoplay");
song.setAttribute("preload","none");

```
song.setAttribute("type","audio/mp3");
song.setAttribute("src",
"c:\\audio\\Audio2.mp3"); document.getElem
entById("audioMain").appendChild(song);
song.play(); });

When I tried the code it didn't show any error but when I refresh it again its not playing. Any Help would be appreciated.

A: It seems like you have to use .bind for this to work.

$(function(){ var
song = document.createElement("audio");
song.setAttribute("id","audio1");
song.setAttribute("autoplay","autoplay");
song.setAttribute("preload","none");
song.setAttribute("type","audio/mp3");
song.setAttribute("src",

```
"c:\\audio\\Audio2.mp3");
song.play().bind('ended',function(){
song.pause(); song.load(); song.play(); });

You'll need to do this with the complete event on the audio element that you have. The `play()` and `load()` are there to help you interact with the loaded music file. You'll need to also change this slightly and replace `load()` and `play()` with `.load()` and `.play()` with `.play()` to allow for the `.load()` and `.play()` events to take place when the audio has loaded and can play. A: For future generations, here
